When my love swears that she is made of truth I do believe her, though I know she lies, That she might think me some untutor'd youth, Unlearned in the world's false subtleties. Thus vainly thinking that she thinks me young, Although she knows my days are past the best, Simply I credit her false speaking tongue: On both sides thus is simple truth suppress'd. But wherefore says she not she is unjust?

But wherefore says she not she is unjust?
And wherefore say not I that I am old?
O, love's best habit is in seeming trust,
And age in love loves not to have years told:
Therefore I lie with her and she with me,

And in our faults by lies we flatter'd be.

(B) A Valediction: Forbidding Mourning

AS virtuous men pass mildly away. And whisper to their souls to go. Whilst some of their sad friends do say, "Now his breath goes," and some say, "No." So let us melt, and make no noise, No tear-floods, nor sigh-tempests move; 'Twere profanation of our joys To tell the laity our love. Moving of th' earth brings harms and fears; Men reckon what it did, and meant; Though greater far, is innocent. Moull sublunary lovers' love —Whose soul is sense—cannot admit Of absence, 'cause it doth remove Though I must go, endure not yet A breach, but an expansion, Like gold to aery thinness beat. If they be two, they are two so As stiff twin compasses are two; Thy soul, the fix'd foot, makes no show To move, but doth, if th' other do. And though it in the centre sit, Yet, when the other far doth roam, It leans, and hearkens after it, And grows erect, as that comes home. Such wilt thou be to me, who must. Like th' other foot, obliquely run: Thy firmness makes my circle just, And makes me end where I begun.	(b) A Valenction. Forbidding Modifining

(C) The Passionate Shepherd to His Love

(C) The Pas	ssionate S	hepherd to His Love
Come live with me and be my love,		A gown made of the finest wool
And we will all the pleasures prove		Which from our pretty lambs we pull;	1
That valleys, groves, hills, and fields,		Fair lined slippers for the cold,	15
Woods, or steepy mountain yields.		With buckles of the purest gold;
And we will sit upon the rocks,	5	A belt of straw and ivy buds,	,
Seeing the shepherds feed their flocks,		With coral clasps and amber studs:	i
By shallow rivers to whose falls		And if these pleasures may thee move,
Melodious birds sing madrigals.		Come live with me, and be my love.	20
And I will make thee beds of roses		The shepherd swains shall dance and sing
And a thousand fragrant posies,	10	For thy delight each May morning:
A cap of flowers, and a kirtle		If these delights thy mind may move,
Embroidered all with leaves of myrtle;		Then live with me and be my love.
